Unconscious Praise. TO THE EDITOR OF THE CITIZEN:

BIB: Perhaps some good Bloomfielders will feel disposed to resent the statement of President T. M. Nevius of the Gien Bidge Borough Board of Education to the effect that Bloomfield schools were the poorest he knew of Mr. Nevius, it will be recalled, is quoted as saying that he had two sons graduated from high schools, one from Bloomfield and one from Montclair. "Both boys stood equal in their collegiate studies." The point is this: In Mr. Nevius' estimation the boy from the Montciair High School came from the best high school Mr. Nevius knew of the boy from the Bloomfield school came from the poorest school he knew of Both boys stood equal in collegiate studies; hence Bloomfield's poorest was equal to Montalair's best. Bloomfield's thanks are due to Mr. Nevius for his unconscious tribute of praise.

"BEE HIVE." New Jersey's

All Bloomfield, Montclair, Caldwell Cars Pass Our Doors.

Millinery, Garments, Waists. Our Opening Will Set a New Higher Standard

For the interpretation of Fashion's moods. No Newark style show has ever been so splendidly broad in scope, so exquisitely perfect in detail. Every whisper from Dame Fashion's lips has found defined form here; every aspect of a style point is faithfully portrayed. The exposition is a university of fashion to the style student-a post-graduate course to every woman who wishes changing modes to be as an open book. It is indeed our most complete display.

THE GARMENTS.

Costumes, coats and wraps are triumphs of style, accuracy and creative exclusiveness-qualities that make this display incomparable, and keep the department on the lofty plane of public estimation that it has season after season enjoyed. It stands aloud for everything that is of high aim in Fashion's realm-Newark's style authority.

THE MILLINERY.

To see the new conceptions is to see through the eyes of America's and Europe's foremost designers-to admire expressions of beauty, style and taste of enchanting originality to go into ecstasies over the supreme achievements of these artists in personal adornment.

THE WAISTS.

The display stands every test of utility and art, so all-in. clusive, yet so choice, that it ranks above any that have gone before. A symposium of the cleverest ideas, models sparkling with ingenuity and refinement-a show of great scope. Al that's worthy the attention of discriminating women is here.
